

The Crime!

It's the 17th March 2018. In a small village in Cambridgeshire a dastardly crime has been committed in the local town hall. Preparations for the wedding of local dignitaries, Lady Antoinette and her fiancé Archibald, were in full swing. The hall has been decorated with finest silk tablecloths and bowls of the most exotic and luxurious fruits adorne each table.

At approximately 10.00 pm, Mr Montgomery, the caretaker, was doing his nightly rounds when he realised something was amiss. As he walked down the corridor towards the hall he noticed a window swinging open in the wind, a tin of blue paint had been spilt on the floor and some juice and a small piece of skin was found on the window ledge where a sharp piece of metal formed the latch. On closer inspection of the hall Mr Montgomery, revealed that the passion fruit had been stolen!

When the police arrived they immediately began to gather evidence. Based on local knowledge and recent sightings there were four main suspects.

Using the clues found at the crime scene, determine which of the four fruity suspects was the passionate thief!
